Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

2. Claims 1-12 and 14-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Medlock et al (6,567,017) in view of Taipale (6,310,856).

As per claims 1-4, Medlock et al disclose a method of generating a signal pattern for a bus having a plurality of bit lines, the method comprising:

Using a first linear feedback shift register (1c) for:

Generating a first plurality of signals to be sent over a selected bit line (14a), and Further generating a second plurality of signals to be sent over at least one bit line (14b) other than the selected bit line. (See Figure 5, col. 16, lines 13-53).

Medlock et al do not disclose first and second linear feedback shift registers, the first linear feed back shift register for generating a first plurality of signals and the second linear feed back shift register for generating a second plurality of signals. However, Taipale discloses first and second linear feedback shift registers, the first linear feed back shift register for generating a first plurality of signals and the second linear feed back shift register for generating a second plurality of signals (Fig. 1, col. 2, lines 6-27 and col. 7, lines 61-67). Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to incorporate the first and second linear feedback shift registers, the first linear feed back shift register for generating the first plurality of signals and the second linear feed back shift register for generating the second plurality of signals as taught by Taipale into the linear feed back shift register of Medlock et al so that using one of the linear feedback shift registers to generate a first pseudo random sequence (first signals) and using the other linear feedback shift register to generate a second pseudo random sequence (second signals) for efficiently generates a special spreading sequences (LMS).

As per claims 5-7, 8-12 and 14-23, these claims are rejected under similar rationale as set forth in claims 1-4.

3. Claim 13 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-23 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

5. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Phung My Chung whose telephone number is 571-272-3818. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday to Friday.
